3 Requirements:

If you're using your own desktop PC, these two free downloads may help to indicate VR readiness:

Oculus Rift - <http://ocul.us/compat-tool>

HTC Vive & Oculus Rift - <http://store.steampowered.com/app/323910/>

But please note given the huge variety in PCs, it's hard to 100% guarantee your PC works with VR. Meeting these specs and passing the linked tests above means it's highly likely to work however.

	Oculus Rift	HTC Vive
CPU:	Intel i3-6100 / AMD FX4350 or greater	Intel i5-4590 / AMD FX8350 or greater
RAM:	8 GB or more	4 GB or more
Graphics:	GTX 960, R9 290, GTX 1050Ti, RX470 or greater	GTX 970, R9 290, GTX 1060, RX 480 or greater
USB:	1x USB 3 + 2x USB 2 (USB 3 recommended)	1x USB 2 or newer (USB 3 recommended)
Windows:	Windows 8.1 or 10	Windows 7 SP1, 8.1 or 10
Hard Drive:	20 GB of free space (up to 240 GB if you install all games at once) and the usual format (not a dynamic disk).	20 GB of free space (up to 120 GB if you install all games at once)

What Else Do You Need?

PS VR & HTC Vive require any standard headphones or earphones. The Rift and Vive Pro have them built-in.

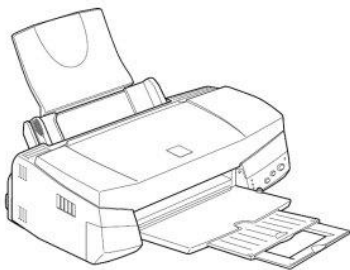

The Vive sensors have to be mounted up high (ideally 2 meters or higher, opposite each other, 5 meters apart or less), but we include clamps to attach them to anything flat up to 4cm thick. If you don't have anything to attach them to, we do rent light stands for $10 + Shipping, which extend up to 2 meters max.

Important: Note that VR is for indoor use, and may not work outdoors or for sunlight on the hardware.

Renting a PC?

You do need a monitor that has HDMI, or Display Port if you have a display port cable.
